

Bothered by Earthfarts

Despite warnings that “Warmist Complain That Methane Is To Blame”, there seems little support for new hypothesis that variations in yet another, natural occurring, trace gas is having major impact on the planet’s temperature. The five atom molecule, Methane, has one Carbon and four Hydrogen atoms. With a 1.7 parts per billion (PPB) presence in the atmosphere, this is considered at “trace gas”.

Methane has a Specific Gravity of 0.55 which is lighter than standard air and a Specific Heat of 1.305, meaning it heats and cools slower than standard air. Methane is NOT the finite and rapidly depleting product of Earth’s dinosaur digestion. Methane is common in the solar system with trace levels on the Moon, Mars and atmospheric concentrations as high as 1.7% on Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. Jupiter’s moon Titan has Methane oceans and Methane rain, while Pluto has a Methane ice crust.

[Disclaimer: Do to the lack of proper scientific methods and terminology used by Warmists and Lukes the name “Methane” (or Fart) will be used in lieu of the proper chemical name “Methyl Hydride” and the verb “Fart” will be used in lieu of the proper scientific name “Flatulence”]

Humanity is suffering through the final stages of the greatest scientific fraud in all of history. This fraud is not a freestanding element. This has been an intentional deception to create an energy tax and control structure to benefit the ruling elite. This monopolists-monarch cabal has quietly and consistently amassed power for centuries and at present are the dominate force in the military-media-academia complex (MMAC).

Eisenhower’s warning to “beware of the military-industrial complex” was his parting Pontius Pilate moment, washing his hands of a system that he had been fully aware of and had spent a lifelong, puppet career supporting. To further their economic stranglehold, the elite have systematically dismantled the “industrial” part of the complex, off-shoring this function to third world slave states.

It is not necessary to understand or support the “criminal cabal conspiracy theory” to recognize the obvious scientific puppet show this is the current Earth climate debate. The students of ‘outcome based education’ are now the purveyors of government funded ‘outcome based science’ and the current Methane debate is a perfect example of this defective behavior.

Every major science publication and professional society is either controlled or influenced by the massive funding under the control of the MMAC. As Climategate emails disclose, editors can be fired and careers ended for violations of the outcome based orthodoxy. The editors of Nature have provided a perfect example of this scientific sock puppet behavior in the Methane debate.

In the interest of full disclosure, Methane is a non-toxic, odorless gas and is not always present, or in high concentrations in human flatulence. Methane is in high concentrations in livestock and termite flatulence. For readers more interested in the fart part of this article, you are referred to FartMart.com for CDs and performance schedules for the world's most famous professional flatulist.

Continuing with the Nature magazine contribution to the current Methane climate debate and the “mysterious decline in the last decades of the 20th century”, the reader is referred to BBC New article, “Opposing Views: New Theories Over Methane Puzzle” posted at <http://climaterealist.com/index.php?id=8200>

“Researchers writing in the journal Nature have come up with two widely differing theories as to the cause. One suggests the decline was caused by greater commercial use of natural gas, the other that increased use in Asia of artificial fertilizer was responsible. Both studies agree that human activities are the key element”

What brought the whole Methane climate control issue up is a panicked hunt for the undeniable mismatch with increasing Carbon Dioxide concentrations and level or declining temperatures of the last decade. Robbed of the required CO₂ villain, the warmists needed some trace gas decline that could be forced to match the new temperature curve.

If you ‘believe’ in the proxy ‘estimates’ atmospheric Methane increased from 700 PPB in the year 1750, to 1745 PPB in the year 1998. As of 2008, this had increased to 1800 PPB. The US government is MANDATED to increase spending every year. In the fuzzy math of government economics a spending ‘freeze’ is a cut. Applying the same ‘logic’, an increase of ONLY 55 PPB in twenty years is a REDUCTION in Methane. Perhaps this ‘reduction’ was the major cause in the failed predicted warming from increased CO₂.

When government funding was provided to ‘research’ the HUMAN causes for Methane reduction and the resulting ‘cooling’, two teams of Coolfartists offered their expertise and juxtaposed opinions. What may at first appear to be ‘balanced’ science “Opposing Views” is in fact transparent outcome based science. The ONLY factors examined were HUMAN CAUSES to the decline in the increase of Methane in the atmosphere. Rather than rejoice that there has been a leveling and cooling of the Earth’s temperature, these witch-hunters go out of their way to again blame humanity as the only cause in climate variations.

We have reached the point where the government malignancy is obviously destroying the final productive segments of civilization. In order to increase the blame for a natural occurring climate change on humanity, they have created a new false metric, the Global Warming Potential. This is the ratio of thermal impact of a trace gas molecule relative to a CO₂ molecule. On this scale the Methane GPW is 72 and human produced Sulfur Hexafluoride has a GWP of 23,900. Never mind that water vapor is over 3,000.

Adding to the cognitive dissonance of yet another human caused trace gas destroying the planet NASA announced their latest findings another possible impact from human induced climate changes. As mentioned in the UK Guardian, “Aliens May Destroy Humanity to Protect Other Civilizations”. Yes, three government funded scientists have predicted that we risk destruction by space aliens for our CO₂, and I guess our Methane, production.

This may at last prove that the phrase “little green men” was no misnomer. By destroying humanity for our ‘non-green’ ways they will show their kindred spirits at Greenpeace, Environmental Defense Fund and the Wildlife Federation that ruthless destruction on humanity and civilization is the best way to “Go Green”.
