

Scopes Trial for Warmist Monkey

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for the honest members of the science community to expose and dissolve the dishonest portion of our community, then the world is on notice that a Declaration of Universal Intellectual Freedom has been announced. Actions of the Warmist branch of science have now reached the provable state of dishonesty deserving of dissolution.

For many years, an honest, unassuming engineer, known as the Humble Science Monk has labored in research on the only plausible theory on the REAL cause of Earth climate changes. Given the astronomical precision of the Milankovitch Cycle and the undisputed correlation with Earth changes, it is obvious that solar system position has a lot to do with climate. Given the overwhelming energy delivered to the Earth by the Sun it is obvious that the Sun system MUST be the major driver in the climate.

Given that these minute astronomical changes have an astronomically small impact on the direct solar insolation, the clever H S Monk devised a two part theory. Changes in the orbits of the multiple magnetic fields of the rotating planets, causes changes in the cosmic ray output of the Sun. The particles from cosmic rays control the variable rate fission of the Earth's vast supply of Uranium and Thorium. Variations of this fission rate from solar system changes, then govern the Earth's temperature.

Once these observations were combined and Monk completed his research, he submitted to the Dinosaur Press for publication. The editors of the Dinosaur Press are too preoccupied in completing their own extinction to recognize valid scientific theory. Talkie Time Radio was too populated with uneducated, displaced disc jockies to provide the hours of discourse necessary for intellectual discussion.

The Monk was left with only one option, New Media, which had just recently made inroads as the principle supplier of alternative, as well as correct thought. Curious and objective minds were able to see world views unencumbered by the filters of the Thought Police, enforcers for the Feudal Fews. The Monk Theory soon spread across the internet, translated into dozens of languages and posted on over 200,000 websites. The Monk Theory was even read into the Congressional Rubber Stamp Record.

Such genius does not go unnoticed. On May 9, 2010, President Sock Puppet called into his office the Head Googlemaster. Together they enacted a plan. Announced as the "Too Much Information Is Dangerous For Our Democracy" plan, they quickly 'resized the web' and over 199,000 of the Monk links were lost. Undeterred, the Monk formed alliances with other honest scientists and co-authored the definitive climate science textbook, now available in five languages.

A year and a half later the “Information is Dangerous” policy had failed as more and more of the Warmist fiction was exposed as Faux Science. Desperate to adopt and control the emerging consensus on the Monk Theory, the ruling Feudal Few called on the most trusted of Warmist Science servants, Doctor Trendbreath.

“Trendbreath” can be defined as...”one who breaths warm air into a faux trend until it fails, he then steals a genuine trend and breaths warm air while claiming creation”. Doctor Trendbreath has now stolen the Monk Theory, supplemented with vast empirical evidence that funding from the Feudal Few has provided.

New data confirms that “down-hole drilling temperature records, from varying depths and over long periods of time, show a direct correlation to changes in the surface temperature.” Decades of research by Monk now have irrefutable empirical support, but the intellectual property rights of this most important Earth science theory in a century appear to be headed to the Kangaroo Court.

All of the justices on the Kangaroo Court are scientifically illiterate above the high school level. Five of the nine kangaroos have previously decided that your mother’s warm breath on your baby face was a toxin. It is too early to tell if these marsupial puppets of the Feudal Few will rule for scientific truth and integrity or be swayed by the warm breath of a proven energy budget counterfeiter.

Monk has promised that there will be NO out of court, gag order settlement. Spending his lifetime in the honest pursuit of knowledge, this monk is far beyond the Ferraris, ho ho’s and nose candy temptations offered by the Feudalists. Humble says that he and his team of scientists will “go to the mat” for truth. He adds his personal observation about life:

“In the end, you take nothing from this planet except the truth that you spend your life trying to find...and you leave nothing on this planet except the truth that you chose to share with those you leave behind”.

This seems a fitting testament to the world efforts of feudalists, warmists and kangaroos aligned against the vast human family they have tried so hard to conquer and enslave. Perhaps when you spend a few quiet moments in personal reflection you will think of what this humble monk has said. You may be surprised what you find, when you search for what it is that you have found, and what you will leave behind.

[My personal thanks to all the great, honest scientists and web hosts who have made this historic moment possible. May all humanity soon join us in universal intellectual liberty. Of course, any resemblance to actual individuals or events is just like global warming, complete FICTION ]
