

Ruled by Master Extortionists

If you are not the lead dog pulling a dog sled, then the view never changes. And so it is with society, those on the leading edge of thought, power and finance have a far better view of the full horizon. As a lead dog with plenty of thought, but no power or finance, it is disturbing for me to see where the 'musher' is leading us.

Engineers are trained to study systems and then optimize them for safety and efficiency. Engineering is applied science, so all recommendations should be scientifically correct. With a career including structural, mechanical, electrical, process, automotive and transportation, my background provided unique insights into a range of science issues.

Obvious defects in the human climate change hoax have been readily apparent to a large number of science trained minds from a wide range of disciplines. So flagrant were the abuses and so drastic the solution that ignoring that failed system was not an option. It is a credit to our past education system that so many well trained minds have spoken out on this issue.

It is a discredit to modern education in general, and Climatology education specifically, that so FEW minds can even grasp the arguments which have been so repeatedly presented. There is the hope that ignorance can be cured with proper information. But unfortunately, education is a time consuming process and there is another errant system that threatens to thwart that process for the benefit of a controlling few.

To the casual observer, humanity seems to have stumbled forward with one or another failed, or at best, semi-successful forms of 'social systems'. Of all the tested models, the singular greatest success has involved a social system based on private property, freedom and democracy. This is a most difficult system to construct and to maintain. If such a near perfect system was constructed, then only informed vigilance will maintain it.

No greater framework for this social system exists than the American Constitution, a quantum leap beyond all systems prior or hence. Like all systems on this planet, this system has been set upon by every form of pestilence imaginable. To remain vigilant you must be aware of the most virulent threat vectors.

Power Base Political Reprisals

A valid social contract requires a common set of rules that are known and accepted by the vast majority of the society. If a population agrees, or can be forced to agree, then the system does not even have to be mutually beneficial. Citizens can agree to be slaves in return for protection and it is protection that the slave master will offer. This protection will be enforced with ignorance, whips, shackles and chains, or ultimately the gallows.

There have always been those who scoff at the central tenant of American freedom, "That all men are created equal", for they have always considered themselves better than their fellow man. Unfortunately this same character defect is a driving factor in greed for power and money which eventually becomes all consuming. The result is a malignant accumulation of power which we are now facing.

There have been organized crime families in this country for centuries. Some were the Dons of boroughs and wards, others the elites of banking and monopoly industry. When economic and political power was less centralized these criminal elements were restricted to control of just the executive and portions of the legislative branches of government, though money has always controlled our rotten judicial branch.

A wealthy, self-described king maker in Texas was once asked if he ever found a politician he could not bribe. His reply was "No, and they are bought really cheap". So the as joke goes, we have the best system that money can buy. When many have money this might work for a time. When a few constantly game the system, they can reach a critical mass of assets and have complete control.

Every President of the twentieth century was to a degree a figurehead or a puppet, with competing controlling interests. A pivotal consolidation occurred in Dallas, on Nov 23, 1963. The date an increasingly larger majority recognize as a state organized hit. The only way for this to be organized was to have damaging evidence of a Kennedy crime that could offset the assassination if the truth was ever known.

There is widespread recognition that both Jack and Robert had affairs with Marilyn Monroe. There are credible rumors that she was pregnant or that she was going public with news of the affairs, just prior to her death. There is irrefutable evidence of Kennedy accomplices in Marilyn's bungalow that night and that her home was bugged by J Edgar Hoover.

I will leave it to the reader to do their own research, compare subsequent assignments and botched investigations and draw their own conclusions. It is beyond ignorant to accept these as random events. We have powerful forces, in powerful positions, with no moral restraints on their behavior. Such is the result of unbridled greed.

If you study the trend lines for education and manufacturing decline during the last half century in America, along with the federal legislation and increasing control, it is obvious that our current condition is intentional. What is also obvious is that despite all efforts to 'dumb us down' to slavery, there is still a strong American spirit and a love of freedom. This will not die by the planned soft kill methods so the ruthless have a fall back plan.

The Nuclear Option

The option that had school children cowering under their desks in the fifties and is joke about one legislative tool used by our wretched political puppets, is a real danger that is on the table. The mega-maniacs realize that real nuclear war would be the end of their hegemony dreams, so they've developed some acceptable fall back plans.

Operation Starfish Prime, on July 9, 1962 was the last above ground test for America and Russia. This test 700 miles from Honolulu and at 200 miles above the Earth blew out Hawaiian power and phone systems and killed seven satellites in a then infant system. This, now termed Electromagnetic Pulse (EMP) bomb is one weapon of choice to blind your opponent in this electronic age. EMP's only kill electronics and electrical systems.

The neutron bomb is another clever choice. This zaps all living things within line of sight of the explosion, even thru most building walls. The amazing thing is that neutron bombs leave most buildings intact and have limited long term radiation. To a Dr Strangelove minded group, these two options might seem irresistible. The only problem is having plausible deniability on the delivery system.

Russia did not seem to be a compliant super power partner, so they needed to be defeated. A starving 'Iron Rice Bowl' China was more than willing. I'll leave it you your investigation and imagination if a man who was former Ambassador to China, former CIA director and former President may have aided in this process. Regardless, we now have an enemy with both the motive and the method.

If you doubt the real intentions of the Red Chinese you need look no further than their vassal states of North Korea, Tibet and Burma. You need look no further than their public statements on immediate control of Taiwan, Japan and Australia and near term control of India and the Middle East. This is a power hungry, racist xenophobic group with a tacit agreement to our elite, an agreement that they have no intention of honoring.

The Viral Vector

When the bird flu outbreak occurred in 2005, a then leader at the World Health Organization, Dr Siti Fadilah Supari of Indonesia, refused to provide any information on the outbreak or control methods. When questioned she stated the Muslims needed to develop a virus that they could inoculate themselves with and then either threaten or actually kill the west in order to redistribute wealth.

What is most frightening is that this woman had access to all top level bio-weapon programs and control methods. So flagrant was this statement that even the limp wristed National Institute of Health called for her removal. Bio-weapons offer tantalizing racial specific disease vector which a separate group of Dr Strangeloves are working on.

In July 2008 the Iranians tested a Shihab-3 missile with a two hundred mile straight up launch. At first, western observers were puzzled, but testimony in the House Armed Services Committee confirmed this is the exact deployment method for EMP weapons. The North Koreans have had a number of high altitude launches, and the Chinese gave Los Angeles a great show, just weeks ago.

So now the elite have a number of EMP vectors. When the event 'happens', they can claim that we don't know who to retaliate against. Our military will be ordered to stand down. With all of our infrastructure in ruins, we will 'need' the Chinese to assist us. The 50 million Chinese men who have no brides, due to female infanticide, will arrive and liberate the light skinned American women. The Chinese are the original master race, so expect racial purification and all offspring to be from 'approved' egg sources.

The happy news is that disclosed plots seldom materialize and known threats can be mitigated. It is very prudent to prepare for these events with a full knowledge of the conditions that will exist. You need a thick lead shield or an underground bunker for the neutron vector which is low probability. For the remaining threats you will need food and water, for those systems of distribution will experience certain interruption.

For the highest probability threat, the EMP strike, you will also need some method of communication and organization. The federal government is currently training an army of agents at our airports that you have no personal rights. They will soon extend that training to armies of gropers for our trains, busses, malls and schools. Coupled, at least initially with an army of invading 'relief' workers, this force will overwhelm our crippled nation.

Hopefully disclosure and rapid preparedness by all Americans will mitigate this danger. Playing war games is far superior to real war games. Hopefully we can correct our current leadership defects and spread peace and democracy in the near future. If you are not the lead dog in the dog sled you do occasionally get a break from the view of husky rump in front of you. When you break over a ridge you too get a brief glimpse of the horizon. Consider this article your glimpse across that varied horizon.
